

PHOTOGRAPHY POLICY

We want our guests to enjoy the historic beauty that Remick Country Doctor Museum & Farm provides. For the safety and consideration of all, we have established the following guidelines. We appreciate your cooperation and understanding.

Remick Country Doctor Museum & Farm is located on private property. While we try to extend every consideration to individuals and groups wishing to photograph at Remick, these activities must not interfere with normal operations or compromise the safety of our buildings, museum collections, animals or the grounds (hereafter collectively referred to as "Museum Property"). The use of drones is prohibited.

All photographers (anyone capturing or recording an image by mechanical or digital means [film or video] for commercial, professional, artistic, or recreational use) are required to pay admission to the Remick Country Doctor Museum & Farm at the Reception Desk before capturing any images.

Commercial, Professional and/or Artistic photographers (see definitions below) are required to make an appointment with the Marketing Coordinator prior to the session date. Photography may not begin until an application has been approved and any associated fee is paid in full.

Remick Country Doctor Museum & Farm reserves all rights for photographic reproduction of our property. Fees covering staff time and permissions, as well as any policies, are subject to change without notice.
